

Alacie is an artist born on October 13, 1983 in Kangirsuk, where she still lives today. She likes to make pieces using different techniques including beadwork, drawing (lead pencils, coloured pencils, pen and permanent marker), acrylic and water colour painting, as well as crochet and embroidery. In beading, Alacie creates different accessories such as necklaces, earrings, uppers (qalliniit) and breastplates for amauti (savviguti). When beading uppers, she incorporates many themes, but prefers flowers. Alacie participated in a jewelry making workshop offered by Makivik a couple of years ago, which allowed her to create all kinds of jewelry using her beads.

Alacie
Lucassie

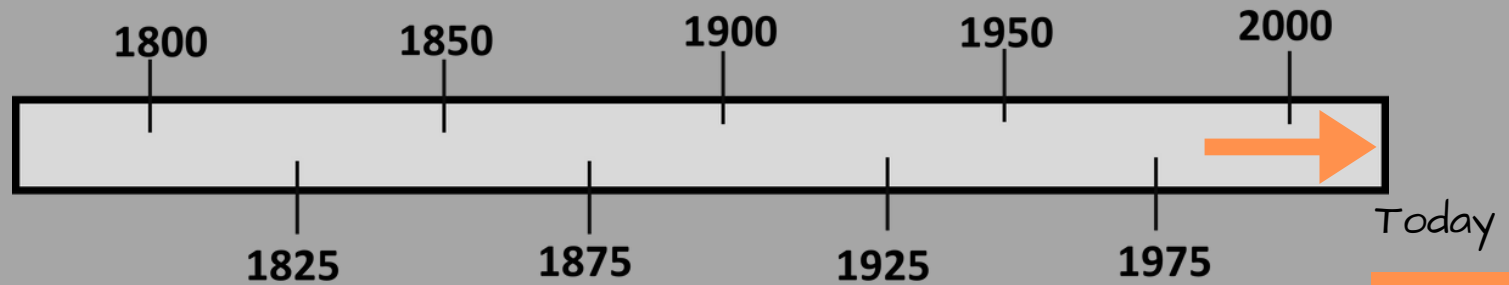

Beaded uppers (qalliniit)

Beaded breastplate (savviguti) for amauti

Beaded earrings

Who inspired the artist?

As a child, Alacie often watched her mother Victoria Lucassie bead vamps (uppers) and was inspired to do the same. Alacie found a tiny pair of vamps when she was young and she started beading them; her mother kept them as a souvenir.

Uluit made with acrylic paint